

SPIRIT OF THE SALMON:

Water, Culture, and Justice in the Columbia Watershed

Environmental Justice Immersion: September 25-26

Menucha Retreat and Conference Center, Corbett, OR

The Environmental Justice Immersion is a two-day pre-conference exploration of the environmental justice issues affecting the tribes of the Columbia River Watershed. Participants will learn about tribal culture and spirituality, see first-hand how climate change and pollution are affecting the Columbia River and tribal life-ways and treaties, and experience hopeful models for healthy communities and watersheds. Registration is $150. Room and board is additional. Commuter registration (own transportation) is $55.
